HIGH WINDS AND SQUALLS

STORM KNOCKS OUT POWER LINES AND BRINGS BLAZE

High winds and squalls brought power failures to two parts of the district at the week-end and was blamed for the destruction of an island home. During the afternoon on Sunday a power failure in the Deep Cove area left many residents without a Sunday dinner. A lengthier failure struck at Pender Islanders.

At 2:30 p.m. on Sunday falling trees disrupted power and phone services in all areas.

B.C. Power Commission crews worked until 3 a.m. repairing the damage but some sections were without power for 20 hours.

Telephone lines were back in use by mid-morning on Monday.

The storms were indirectly responsible for a fire on Monday evening which gutted the two-room cottage of Miss Frances Saville. Miss Saville left an electric kettle plugged in when the power failed. She was at the home of a friend when the service was resumed. The kettle boiled dry, overheated and ignited the woodwork of the kitchen.

Volunteer firemen brought the blaze under control and carried out most of the furnishings, including the owner's piano.

Miss Saville is presently being cared for by friends. She plans to rebuild on the same site this spring. The loss was covered by insurance.

HULME HINTS

GORDON HULME

An early announcement of some importance with regard to domestic water extension in North Saanich is likely.

At Tuesday's meeting of Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce, President G. C. Hulme reported that his water committee continues active and has been in close liaison with the provincial government recently. The committee is "very encouraged," he said, and forecast an early announcement of considerable significance.

SHE FOUND LOTS TO DO ON SUNDAY AFTERNOONS

A lady "with lots of spare time, and nothing to do with it," is now a new enthusiastic member of SANSCHA and is looking after the Sunday Roller Skating Club. She has something to do now on Sunday afternoons.

Mrs. A. Threadgoid, who had to give up a full-time job to be at home during the illness of her husband, found that she had extra time on her hands. She is now enjoying her work with the many skaters who come to SANSCHA Hall on Sunday afternoons.

Crane Is Removed From Here

Familiar sight at the Marine base of Patricia Bay Airport for many years was the crane shown above in the course of dismantling. The crane cost a man's life when it crashed during construction nearly 20 years ago. It has now been moved to Esquimalt for use by the R.C.N.

It Never Served Purpose For Which It Was Erected

Costly white elephant at the marine base at Patricia Bay Airport has gone. The mobile crane, properly called a Brute Crane, was erected at the base by the Hamilton Bridge Co. for the R.C.A.F. in 1942. It was never used for its intended purpose.

Cost of the crane was represented in the accident which occurred during its construction. A shifting of the concrete counterbalance weight caused the structure to fall, killing one of the crew and seriously injuring another.

The crane was originally designed to lift the large Catalina flying boats from the water. The Catalina that was, at that time, the accepted coastal patrol plane of the R.C.A.F. It had no beaching gear of its own. By the time the crane had been completed, this aircraft had been declared obsolete for patrol work and had been replaced by the amphibious Canso. The latter was able to land on either land or water.

The crane remained in partial use by the air force, mainly for lifting small boats and marine gear to the jetty, but in 1947 it was abandoned and became solely a part of the scenery and a nesting place for the hundreds of pigeons who are now looking for new living quarters.

When the Royal Canadian Navy took over Patricia Bay from the R.C.A.F., the crane became naval equipment, and has been taken to Esquimalt where it will be put to use on the new R.C.N. jetty.

The dismantling and moving was handled by an expert crew from H.M.C.S. Dockyard with no incidents.

During the construction of the crane, the cement counterbalance, weighing approximately 50 tons, had slipped, bringing one man to his death and injuring another.

Soon, even the tracks on which the crane moved its position, will have been removed, and every vestige gone of the gigantic piece of equipment that has for almost 20 years been a part of the Patricia Bay Waterfront.

CHAMBER HEARS PLEA

The matter of Friday evening shopping for the Sidney business district was raised at Tuesday's meeting of Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce by E. F. Martin, Sidney jeweller and head of the Chamber's retail merchants' committee.

"We are losing a lot of business because we do not have Friday night shopping," said Mr. Martin. "One grocery store in Victoria does one-third of its weekly business Friday evenings, proving that the public want it. To make it succeed here, we'd all have to stay open and its success would depend on a long-range program."

H. O. Munger, Sidney cobbler, contended that Sidney merchants are driving as much business away by closing on Monday afternoons as by failing to remain open on Friday evenings. J. G. Mitchell maintained that a village by-law prevented retailers from staying open on Friday evenings.

President G. C. Hulme complained at the lack of support the Chamber receives from retailers. "There are 40 Sidney merchants who should be here tonight whose chairs are vacant," he declared. "We can only succeed in any objective if retailers attend Chamber meetings."

Mr. Martin was authorized to discuss Friday night opening with other retailers.

At the pet show in Victoria, organized by Vancouver Island branch of the Canadian Chinchilla Breeders' Association, Mr. Kirby took the award for the best pet in the show, and gained two other ribbons.

Other local exhibitors who gained awards were Jack Lee and V. Nunn, both of Royal Oak.

Judges were P. N. Monjo, of the New York Fur Auction Co. and Bert Owens, of Victoria.

$1,500 LOSS

BLAZE IS THREAT TO BLOCK

Early morning fire on Tuesday, Feb. 16, threatened the entire block on Beacon Ave. occupied by Mitchell & Anderson Lumber Ltd. Prompt response by members of Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department brought the blaze under control and restricted the damage to $1,500.

The fire broke out in the apartment above the hardware store, occupied by Mrs. M. E. Yerburgh, who at this time was not home. It is believed that a burning cigarette butt in the chesterfield had started the blaze.

Pender Plea Gains Poor Support

Problem of scarcity of fish is not to be settled by eliminating commercial fishing, but by improving the facilities for spawning and developing young fish.

Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce has expressed this view in reply to a plea from Pender Island Chamber of Commerce for support in seeking closure of certain waters in the vicinity of Active Pass to commercial fishing.

Lieut.-Col. D. G. Crofton reported to the executive of the chamber last week that he had communicated with D. Hearn, of the fisheries department with a view to restocking streams on the island. He had also communicated with the Salt Spring Island Rod and Gun Club concerning the same matter.

The chamber will undertake the cleaning up of the beaches at Gauges this year.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED To Celebrate Ferry Service

Members of Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce, meeting in Hotel Sidney on Tuesday evening, discussed the inauguration of the Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen ferry service at the end of May and named Gray Campbell to head a committee to suitably mark the occasion.

Area Cleared As Wharf Job Waits

—At Swartz Bay

As sub-contractors are steadily making headway with clearing at the site of the new Swartz Bay wharf the wharf project itself has yet to commence. The deadline of late spring still obtains and workers concerned are confident that there will be no delay.

Vancouver firm, Dawson & Wade, which is in charge of the ferry approach, is still waiting for working equipment such as rock drills, compressors, bulldozers, to be shipped from Vancouver.

The Vancouver firm has the contract to level off the area one-half mile back from the newly-planned ferry slip to the approaching highway, and to build a 150-foot long, rock-filled breakwater.

Deadline for construction of the road to Swartz Bay is set for a later date. In charge of road work is Premier Construction Company, Vancouver.

There will be five contracts, to complete the new ferry landing and its approaching area including a parking lot for 150 cars.

One contract for clearing and ground levelling, one for road construction, one for blacktopping, one for erecting the administration buildings and one for building the ferry slip.

Clearing of the new road sites is already in progress. Contract for clearing of the ferry landing approach which was awarded to A. Gobin, White Rock, sub-contractor of Dawson & Wade, is almost completed.

The new road to Swartz Bay ferry landing will skirt the east of North Mountain. Property owners have already been notified by the provincial government that their property will be acquired due to the construction of the new road.

Motor Vehicle Licenses

Sidney village office will be open on Saturday, Feb. 27 for the sale of license plates. Monday afternoon, Feb. 29, will also see the office open for this purpose as motorists seek to acquire their license plates at the last day of the old license year.

The office will be open for no other purpose and municipal business will not be transacted at these times.

Artists At Work In Victoria

Demonstration of men at work will be featured in the Victoria Art Gallery on Moss St. on February 20. The men will be artists and craftsmen and will include many women.

The demonstration will open at 2 p.m. and continue until 10 o'clock, with a break from five o'clock until seven.

Every phase of art will be shown, including water and oil painting, ceramics, work on various materials and leathercraft. Instructor in this latter will be Mrs. Iris Godwin, of Sidney, and displaying ceramic work will be Mr. and Mrs. G. McLennan, of Gilmar Studios in Sidney.

Two continuous movies of Chinese brush painting and book binding will also be shown.

CADETS GO FLYING

Members of 676 Sidney Kinsmen Air Cadet Squadron were flown around the Peninsula on Saturday when an R.C.A.F. plane was at Patricia Bay Airport.

The flying experience is part of the air cadet training scheme and all cadets are expected to take part in the program.

Goat Clubs

Saanich 4-H Goat Clubs have prepared plans for a tea in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Co. in Victoria. The event will take place during the afternoon of February 27.

A report in The Review last week erroneously stated that the event would be held earlier in the month.

BOUQUET FOR TWO UTILITIES

Utilities on Salt Spring Island have been presented with a bouquet from the Island Chamber of Commerce. The chamber has written to the B.C. Telephone Co., commending the service given by the island operators.

A second commendation has gone to the B.C. Power Commission expressing appreciation of the improved service enjoyed during the past year.

MOVEMENT IS 40 YEARS OLD

SIDNEY KINSMEN CLUB REVIEWS THREE YEARS OF ACTIVITY IN THIS COMMUNITY

It is 40 years since the Kinsmen Club was established in one Canadian city. Since that time the only all-Canadian service club has spread across the Dominion to embrace almost every community from coast to coast.

This year a monument is to be erected in Hamilton to commemorate the birth of the service club.

In February, 1957, the Sidney Kinsmen Club gained its charter with a membership of 15. Today, with a total membership of 20, the club looks back on three years of achievement and service to the community.

In its three years of operation the club has become a known and welcome factor in the life of the community in and around Sidney.

Two most prominent contributions made by the club are the establishment of an air cadet squadron here, which is sponsored by the club and the provision of an emergency ambulance. The latter was a Kinsmen project and members of the club undertook the collection of funds to finance its purchase. Operated by the Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department as a community service, the ambulance has already answered far more calls than have the fire-fighting vehicles of the department, during the period of its operation.

AIR CADETS

Two years ago the club pursued a close investigation into the sponsorship of an air cadet squadron. A special committee of the club was formed as a cadet committee and this became the civilian committee of 476 Sidney Kinsmen Air Cadet Squadron. The club provided funds for the necessary equipment and supplied by the R.C.A.F. Its members are responsible for the standards of the squadron here and a close liaison is maintained between the club and the squadron officers. In this connection, the club is responsible for the Patricia Bay Armories in which the squadron maintains its headquarters.

When the drive was launched for SANSCHA Hall, the Sidney Kinsmen Club took an active part in raising clubs and in assisting physically with the work. The club also built the caretaker's room at the community hall, providing the necessary materials.

A bicycle safety campaign was launched in Sidney and all cycles were inspected when luminous tape was affixed to the rear.

BIG DANCE
Mardi Gras dance was sponsored by the club at the community hall and attracted the largest attendance ever seen at such a function in this area.

In a different realm of activity, the club has supplied and distributed hampers to the needy during Christmas. Members assisted two Scouts to attend the jamboree in Valley Forge.

These activities have been entirely centred on the local community. Kinsmen also play a part in collecting funds for and operating the services on a provincial and national scale which have been a collective project. Among these are aid for polio victims and crippled children.

With Gordon Campbell at the helm, the club is heading into a further period of activity with the emphasis on community service.

School Board Remains Firm On Site For New Fire Hall

Gulf Islands School District remains adamant on its decision regarding a fire hall site. The board had been invited to reconsider an earlier refusal to offer a site for a fire hall.

At its regular meeting on Thursday of last week the board saw "no justification for rescinding its previous motion."

The meeting also finalized the 1960 budget in preparation for its presentation to the department of education the following day.

MINOR INJURIES IN CAR CRASH

Collision of two cars on Patricia Bay Highway at Beacon Ave. on Friday afternoon, Feb. 12, resulted in minor injuries for Patricia Pyke, All Bay Road, Sidney. Travelling northbound she collided with a southbound car making a left-hand turn onto Beacon Ave. Model car was driven by Stanislaw Mozol, 4024 Glenford. Total damage was estimated at $700.

"If millions of us had really turned for inspiration to the Declaration of Human Rights, then we would be so moved and outraged by its repeated violation that we would not rest until the refugees, victims of a breach of faith, were freed from their bondage as refugees and re-instated in their rightful place among their more fortunate fellows."—James J. Norris, president, I.C.M.C.

ACROSS MY DESK REPORT FROM VICTORIA

JOHN D. T. TISDALE, M.L.A.

In my opinion, probably one of the most interesting and informative speeches of the Throne Debate was given by minister of mines (and petroleum), W. K. Kiernan.

In his analytical and concise manner of speaking, he dealt with an altogether new aspect of the rather shop-worn debate of commercial energy in this province. It would be very difficult to improve upon his phraseology and delivery, so I will endeavor to quote his remarks.

He began by asking the question: "What are the resources upon which our economy is built—what part of the whole is already developed—what are our plans for the future? Are we aware of what portion of the potential of these resources is being utilized?"

Then he explained: "For example, our forest crop, is harvested today at less than 50 per cent on a province-wide basis and far below optimum utilization. There is a greater volume of un-harvested timber in northern B.C. than the total harvested volume presently taken. ONLY 12 PER CENT USED."

Of the 30,000,000 potential hydro horsepower estimated to be available in the province, not more than 12 per cent is presently harnessed, with the result there is no benefit or revenue from 88 per cent of this resource.

Of the total farm area, estimated at 4,702,274 acres, 24 per cent or 1,147,775 acres is classified as improved acreage calculated to be 0.5 per cent of the land area of British Columbia. The land actually in crop approaches a figure of 1,000,000 acres, representing 0.43 per cent of the land area of this province or one-quarter of the potential.

Our oil and gas development has only begun. Mineral production is again expanding, but with one major exception, we dispose of our minerals primarily as raw materials.

We are 1,595,000 people in an area of 366,000 square miles, with the major portion of our population concentrated in the southwest five per cent of our land mass.

The vast, undeveloped and unpopulated areas of B.C. can and must be developed and populated. It is fine to talk about northern development, but it is much more practical to take effective action along with the talk.

COMPARISON
The minister then approached the subject in a unique manner of drawing a comparison as to the hydro electrical energy producing facilities between gas and oil. He suggested that this could only be done by converting the two to a common denominator. Otherwise, it was impossible to compare them as trying to compare cabbages and turnips. (The minister jokingly said: "This can only be done if you convert them to Irish stew.")

He then proceeded to give us a conversion example of the volumes and the equalities of both types of power by stating:

"That approximately 12 per cent of potential hydro has been developed and put to use. From that 12 per cent harnessed hydro, we produced in 1959 approximately 12,350,000,000 kw hours energy. In order to make a comparison between hydro and other sources of energy it is necessary to bring them to a common denominator such as the British Thermal Unit—1 kw. hour electrical energy has a B.T.U. content of 3,341; 1 cu. ft. of pipeline gas has a minimum B.T.U. equivalent of 950—in other words 3.4 cu. ft. of pipeline gas has a thermal unit equivalent of 1 kw. hour of electrical energy."

"It is worthy of note that in the year 1959, the natural gas produced in B.C. in terms of thermal units was equal to 145 per cent of all the electrical energy produced in British Columbia in that same year."

NATURAL GAS

"I might venture to say," he also remarked, half in jest, "that if this 'hydro hassle' continues with all talk and no action, with politics in lieu of production, our natural gas could effectively take over the job that hydro should normally do."

It can, of course, be argued that this is not a fair comparison since electric energy is normally harnessed to different uses than that to which we put natural gas. While such an argument is true to some degree, the fact of the matter is that uses for electrical energy and natural gas, as energy, are often parallel.

This comparison clearly illustrates the tremendous strides that the natural gas development has made from its rather modest status back in 1952."

I might add here that Hon. Mr. Williston's remarks are significant in that the Opposition members showed no real interest in acquiring information before debating the issues of power and development of the Peace vs. Columbia.

As he said: "At no time has any of the Opposition taken the trouble to come into his office and discuss the matter or acquire any of the material that he had on hand."

He generously offered the use of his films and his talk that he had given over 72 times throughout the province on B.C. Hydro, to the Opposition for their use.

Mr. Bonner, in his remarks, stated: "the public has become understandably confused as a result of the criticism of energy development voiced particularly by the Socialist members of this House. The Socialist line of attack has been developed along the lines of 'it's a give away', 'it's a gold mine for somebody else', 'it's a high cost', 'it's uneconomic', 'it should be public power'. An argument that marches in four different directions is not very convincing."

NO CHEAP POWER

He also stated: "There is actually nowhere in British Columbia where truly cheap power is obtainable. That has been the history of power development in this province where cost structures in relation to electricity, as in relation to every other type of production, have been historically high in comparison with almost anywhere else in Canada. Therefore, I must say to this House, that if costs on the Columbia or costs on the Peace are high in relation to the rest of the province, the gap in point of time between the dates of commencement of development of these two systems, the greater that disparity of cost will continue to be."

The Hon. Mr. Bonner said: "The anticipated requirements of this province over the next 10 and 15 years made these dates earlier than many people in the province are prepared to admit, and if the northern project is as uneconomic as some suggest, why is it that public power should be asked to undertake the development?"

Next week: The budget debate.

"IT HAPPENED TO JANE" AT GEM

Next film coming to the Gem Theatre is "It Happened to Jane". It will be shown on Thursday, Feb. 18; Friday, Feb. 19, and Saturday, Feb. 20. The picture filmed in technicolor, stars Doris Day, Ernie Kovacs and Jack Lemmon. The production tells the delightful story of a girl from Maine who tangles with a railway tycoon.

"CITY OF GOLD"

On the same program, the film "City of Gold" gives an account of the colorful past of the once famous and notorious city Dawson, also called "Queen of the Yukon". All the colorful life of the former meeting place of gold seekers, gamblers, dance-hall girls comes alive once more.

Guide Notes

The week of February 22 is spoken of as "Thinking Week" and on February 22 we commemorate the birthdays of our founder, Lord Robert Baden Powell and our Chief Guide, Lady Baden Powell. It is only fitting that we should more particularly during this week remember the first half of our promise to "Do our duty to God" and therefore the Sidney Guides and Brownies will meet with the Scouts and Cubs at church parade on Sunday next at 2:45 p.m. at St. Andrew's Anglican church. Guides and Brownies will meet in the Guide and Scout Hall at 2:15 in full uniform.

On Tuesday of next week the Guides and Brownies will be keeping "Thinking Week" to which parents and interested friends are invited. The Brownies at 3:30 p.m. and the Guides at 7 p.m. Both ceremonies will take place in the Guide and Scout Hall.

Payments to Sun Life policyholders and beneficiaries totalled $179 million in 1959—$705,000 for each working day—an increase of $20 million over 1958 payments.

Income from all sources was $372 million.

Residential mortgages comprised an important part of new investments by Sun Life in 1959. Assets at year end amounted to $2,307 million—$92 million more than a year ago—of which $551 million was in mortgages.

Mrs. Hunt wishes to thank all the members of the United Church W.A. and the Women's Institute for the flowers and many cards received from them while a patient at both places.

Monthly meeting of Brentwood Women's Institute was held last Tuesday afternoon at the W.I. hall. Sixteen members answered the roll call and Mrs. W. Parker was in the chair. There was a discussion and names will be sent in for nominations for president and four directors for the provincial board. Experimental Farm Notes

WEEKLY REPORT OF NORTH SAANICH STATION

A new method of growing tomatoes in greenhouses which has gained a measure of popularity in England makes use of rings, a roofing felt-like material about 9 1/2 inches in diameter, filled with a rich potting soil mixture and placed on a bed of gravel or cinders. For the first six weeks after planting root growth is confined to the ring. After this time roots grow into the gravel or cinders and from that time on the plants' water requirements are met by a daily watering to this aggregate material. No nutrients are supplied to the gravel or cinders, but a weekly feeding is given to the rings. In this way the water requirements of the plant are taken care of by roots in the aggregate and the nutrient requirements by the roots growing in the soil in the rings.

Advantages claimed for this rather novel method include marked increases in yields over the conventional ground bed method, freedom from disease, and ease of watering. Since the rings raise the level of the base of the plants, there is better aeration around them and hence less likelihood of foliar diseases. Watering, an exacting operation in the growing of greenhouse tomatoes, cannot be overdone by this system as any excess percolates through the gravel or cinders and is drained off.

COMPARISON This system was tried at the Experimental Farm in 1959, and comparisons made between plants grown in rings on 3s to 5-inch washed gravel and on sawdust, and plants grown in regular ground beds. An early advantage was seen in quicker growth of the plants in the rings. As the roots grew into the aggregate below, and the first fruits began to size, feeding of the plants in the rings commenced. A liquid 6-9-7 fertilizer was thereafter applied weekly, each plant being given 2 1/2 pints of a 1 in 100 dilution.

The picking season commenced at the end of May, and there appeared to be an advantage in earliness for the two ring culture treatments. Up to the end of June, yields for the ring-sawdust and ring-gravel treatments were, respectively, 4.8 and 4.0 pounds per plot, while for the regular culture treatment the yield was 3.0 pounds per plot. By the end of the picking season on August 11, the respective yields were 8.2, 7.4 and 6.9 pounds per plant, so the overall differences were 1.2:2.2 marked.

While the returns from the ring culture method were fairly satisfactory from plants occupying just over a three square feet of growing space, the yields do not approach the figure of 20 pounds per plant obtained in England. Where a grower wishes to try the system, however, the evidence from this trial suggests that sawdust be used as a cheaper and more easily handled material which will give as good if not better results than gravel.

TOO OLD TO HELP

If you have caught your first cold of the season you may think of using up a prescription that was prepared during a similar previous illness. Should your doctor instruct you to resume the medication, remember that his advice does not necessarily refer to the unused remains in the bottle. An old medicine may have lost its effectiveness, may even be spoiled.

Syrup, very often employed as a sweetening agent, may turn sour. Certain ingredients of a liquid medicine will remain in solution for a limited period only, after which they will form a precipitate in the bottle. In dry medications—such as capsules and powders—drugs are occasionally used that tend to absorb moisture from the air. Still other drugs, unstable by nature, gradually lose potency.

Your pharmacist has made the study of the behavior of drugs his life work. He knows whether the prescription he prepared for you six months or a year ago is still suitable for use, or whether—if your doctor has directed continuation of the medicine—a new supply should be prepared. Clan Meets In Victoria As Chief Recovers From Crash

The Clan MacLeod Society held its annual dinner on the 82nd birthday of their chief, Dame Flora MacLeod, on Wednesday, Jan. 3, at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Small tables made for informality and heather and spring tulips struck an appropriate note which was echoed in the MacLeod badge and tartan ribbons worn by the executive, who acted as hosts.

Dr. Hector MacLeod was chairman, and, after grace, said by Padre Mackinnon, a guest, dinner was served. Dal MacLeod proposed the health of the Queen, and Mrs. Catherine Blinko the health of the chief. Reading a letter from the parent society in Edinburgh, Mrs. Blinko gave news of Dame Flora, who had been in a motor accident on the eve of her departure for New York, and was confined to hospital in Inverness, with a broken pelvis and crushed ribs. A birthday bouquet had been sent by telegram to the chief, and during the dinner, a Valentine card had been signed by the 74 guests present at the affair.

A trio of Scottish songs was sung by Miss Marjorie Sturgeon, accompanied by Miss Pat Croft, after which slides of Skye and the 1959 gathering of the clan were shown.

Dr. Hector MacLeod, the honorary president and Mrs. MacLeod, Miss Robertson and Mrs. Catherine

LEGISLATIVE REPRESENTATION

A SUGGESTION from Central Saanich Chamber of Commerce concerning representation in the provincial legislature of the Saanich electoral district is rather interesting. The Chamber is convinced that one member cannot possibly properly represent the mass of population all the way from the boundaries of the City of Victoria to Swartz Bay and Deep Cove. Every voter on the Peninsula will entirely agree with this contention.

In the last provincial election on September 19, 1956, there were no less than 22,500 voters on the lists of Saanich electoral district. This compared with some British Columbia constituencies where there were only 4,000 or 5,000 persons to be represented by a single individual. The City of Victoria, as the Central Saanich Chamber of Commerce quite properly points out, there are three members to represent the populace. In other words the rapidly-expanding Saanich Peninsula cannot possibly be served adequately in the legislature by one member. We are confident that the incumbent, John Tisdale, would agree as heartily as anyone else.

But The Review cannot convince itself that the solution to the problem can be found in the course of action suggested by the Central Saanich Chamber. Members of that active group are suggesting that two members be elected to serve the existing area. Would that give us all adequate representation? We do not think so.

First of all the legislature would have to set up a redistribution committee to study representation in Saanich and other constituencies throughout the province. The speech from the throne read in the legislature this year did not suggest that formation of a redistribution committee was planned. Hence it is a reasonable guess that boundaries and representation in all constituencies in the province will remain as they are for the election expected this year.

The second point that concerns us is whether two members for the existing constituency could give it good representation. The mass of voters reside in the extreme southern part of Saanich municipality. Numbers of residents thin out rapidly in the northern portion, including Central Saanich and North Saanich. It seems likely, then, that both proposed legislative members would come from the heavily-populated southern portion of the sprawling constituency, leaving the northern portions again unrepresented.

This newspaper would much rather see a redistribution committee dividing the Peninsula at some logical point, providing one member for the south and another for the north. In that way, we are confident, the people of the Peninsula would gain much better representation.

We are not suggesting that the incumbent is not doing all in his power to do a good job. We are convinced that he is. But he is still only human and it is impossible for any one man—or two for that matter—to adequately represent such a mass of population with such widely divergent economies and interests. One part is distinctly urban, and the other equally as rural.

The Review is satisfied that division of the Saanich Peninsula into two separate and distinct constituencies is the only long-range answer to the problem.

SALESMANSHIP

SIDNEY and North Saanich Community Hall Association recently expressed a plea to all community organizations in the district to support a final drive for funds. The association asked for a donation of $100 from all such groups here in order to bring a new state of solvency to "he hall operation."

The community hall was established as the result of campaigns, drives and efforts by local groups. The membership of the association responsible is largely made up of delegates from various other groups here. Merchants and residents have contributed considerable money to the hall. It is still in need of further funds, but future alterations are not yet urgently needed.

The current appeal would eliminate the final indebtedness incurred when the hall was opened to the public.

The appeal has only one failing. When it was launched the directors of SANSCHIA explained that the donation of a series of cheques for $100 would assist with the clearing of debt. It then added that the hall could get along without this assistance.

While the truth of this rider cannot be questioned, it was unlikely that such blatant honesty was good selling psychology.

Letters To The Editor

MUNICIPAL COST

It was a surprise to me and also I would think to other readers of your paper to know that the chairman of the Village of Sidney Commission was not in accord with the "Morrison Report", but more especially for his plan of school financing.

I was under the impression the whole report had been adopted unanimously by the Union of B.C. Municipalities. If Sidney objected they must have been the sole negative vote.

More mystifying still are the figures he quotes. Unless Sidney village occupies a favored position I would imagine their basic education tax is 12 mills like any other organized municipality.

To this 12 mills must be added sufficient mill rate to make up the required educational requisition, thus in Central Saanich it could well be 25 mills or more for 1960.

In 1959 our school requisition called for $90,970. Our per capita grant was $39,632 while the home owner's grant amounted to $17,549, thus leaving the municipality $31,789 to provide for. In spite of Dr. Hemmings' assertion the Municipality of Central Saanich in the overall picture could have reduced the tax load by 12 mills if the property tax for education had been eliminated.

There does not appear to be any doubt but that an increased mill rate for school purposes is in the offing for 1960, therefore the situation will not change much despite the extra effort which Mr. Bennett is dangling before our noses. True, it will help the home-owner of low assessment properties but it does not solve the dilemma of our increasing educational requirements and the motive is rather unethical. The bookkeeping costs and stationery costs for this refund scheme runs into many thousands of dollars and is a headache for council staffs, whereas the same cheques now issued to the municipalities would only need a few figures added.

Yes, we have an election budget alright and it is likely to achieve its purpose until the people realize that the carrots are synthetic or plastic.

If Mr. Bennett had so much money to throw around because of the heavy taxation he has imposed, why did he not reduce the sales tax and why did he have to increase the licence fees on commercial trucks, etc? All these extra costs will eventually have to be borne by the consumer. I wonder how long we are going to be fooled by such platitudes. I might add the welfare and social assistance does not enter into the discussion.

Reflections From the Past

10 YEARS AGO

After a month of winter that will go down in history, January has slipped icily away. Official low reading was 4.2 degrees above zero. Old-timers who recall severe winters of the past have been proved right and right again.

Linked with B.C. since 1880, Anton Henderson passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital, Victoria, on Wednesday, Jan. 25. He was 96 years of age.

After the heavy snowfall this past week, local merchants found the task of delivering to residents of the area a difficult problem, but a local feed-store proprietor determined to "carry on" and assisted by the co-operation of one of the neighboring dairymen, weathered the storm with a team of horses and sleigh.

20 YEARS AGO

On Wednesday morning, last week, Gavin Reynolds, age 23, of Fulford Harbour, an employee in A. Pednault's logging camp, situated on the Sanson Narrows, had the misfortune to meet with a serious accident while topping a tree which had been previously felled and which was overhanging a bank.

A number of Sidney friends gathered in the lounge at Rest Haven last Sunday to enjoy a lively program of sacred songs given by a visiting group of 26 Salvation Army Songsters from the Victoria Citadel, in charge of Adjutant Milley and Mrs. Hayward.

30 YEARS AGO

Alex McLean, owner of the fishing ship "Spindrift", was accidentally drowned early Saturday morning when the vessel, which had been leaking the previous day, and which had a heavy load of scrap iron on deck, almost completely disappeared in 15 feet of water.

The death occurred on Sunday morning at St. Joseph's Hospital of Helen Brogan, aged 48, wife of Peter Brogan, of 3330 Whittier Ave., Saanich. Mrs. Brogan was born in Scotland.

land and had resided in Saanich for 18 years.

40 YEARS AGO

Within a few days a new industry will make its appearance in Sidney—an up-to-date laundry. The enterprise will be launched by Mr. and Mrs. J. Mason.

The "Saanich" Brand Cannery was busily engaged last Tuesday loading a carload of canned clams for Vancouver. This shipment was a result of a trip to Vancouver last week of C. C. Cochran.

Having disposed of his property in Deep Cove, S. M. Jones, accompanied by his family, left yesterday for Seattle where they will take up residence indefinitely.

Winter fires in barns, stables or outhouses are usually caused by the knocking over or explosion of kerosene lamps or lanterns.

The question of securing Sidney as a base for aviation was discussed and the secretary instructed to take the matter up with the Canadian Air Board.

Dental Work Is Offered

Provincial assistance for dental service is already paid to old-age pensioners in receipt of the provincial bonus.

Following a plea by this newspaper last week for greater assistance for pensioners, Frank Heaton, welfare officer for Saanich, has stated that the pensioner in receipt of the provincial bonus receives a medical card which entitles him to free medical service including dentistry and optical work.

Pensioners included are those whose assets, excluding their homes, do not exceed $500.

A pensioner in possession of a sum greater than $500 is not yet entitled to the free service.

A Critic Looks At Art

AND REMAINS MORE CRITICAL

Imagination is the keynote in the exhibition of paintings by 17-year-old Winston Allingham, which is showing at the Apollo Gallery, Broad St., until February 17.

Imagination, and a deftness with color, and yet, as a member of the public, albeit an older member, found that more than imagination was needed by the onlooker in deciphering these pictures hanging so gaily on the walls of that nice, little gallery. I needed an interpreter. So did many others; but so do most of us when confronted by Lieber's or de Kermadec's work or indeed by many hundreds of contemporary artists, who are busy giving the world these "difficult" patterns to investigate.

Color and pattern and above all, when words or explanations fail, we are told it is all "emotion". Not mine, not yours, but the artists'—as an Old Country critic said the other day: "The work of the great and acknowledged artists of the past provided easily and universally understood examples of technical skill and ability as well as of artistic composition and pattern—today the emphasis sometimes tends to concentrate on pattern, and in extreme cases, merely reveals the complexities of the creator's psychology and outlook which does not always comment itself to the average person, and which must therefore, have a limited appeal from the simple fact that it is not understood."

This seems to me to sum up much of the older generation, feel about these clever pattern makers. In young Allingham, he is in this phase of abstraction or non-objective painting, but his skill, sure touch and instinct for composition should carry him far. The fact that his mural, designed to show the evolution of the airplane, from balloons to space

Pull Up A Chair . . .

By TED GASKELL

BUT NOT COMPLETE

A story in the Sun last week tells of some one, unnamed, finding a lean in the tower which supports Big Ben. It says that a recent check disclosed the lean of four inches from the vertical and that the tilt was discovered after cracks were found in the masonry at the foot of the tower.

And that's all it says.

This bothers me. It left me feeling that there the tower was, leaning away like mad and nothing being done.

If only there had been added a paragraph to the effect that the matter was being studied, I would have felt better.

But no. I could just imagine after the routine check someone saying "there's a four-inch lean in the tower" and someone else saying, "Oh", rather disinterestedly.

It really bothers me. I can imagine that one day it will fall down and the man who did the routine check will hear of it and say, "Oh, yes, I noticed a four-inch lean some time ago."

I wish they would complete these news stories.

There was another example the other day.

Under a small picture of Anthony Quinn we were given information that this actor was suing Yul Brynner, another actor, for over $1,000,000.

But it didn't say why. There were three suits apparently.

But what were they for? Libel, slander? Did Brynner make slanderous remarks about Quinn's hair-do knowing that Quinn had no comb-back, or fail to return a borrowed comb?

I wish they wouldn't do these things.

There was another story about Britain's Prime Minister visiting Africa.

There were, at one point, demonstrations when he landed, according to one paper.

But that's all we know. Did the natives demonstrate their joy at his arrival by doing a tribal dance; did they demonstrate their anger with "Mack, Go Back" signs, or did they simply demonstrate a new line of can openers or 15 different ways to fricassee dog food?

We'll never know. It's almost as bad as not quite hearing a broadcast news program. You are reading and the radio is on and suddenly you hear the words "president dies."

Sounds like world-shaking news, doesn't it? But the whole sentence probably read: "The statement that the wife of the PRESIDENT DYES her own clothes has been denied." The

A committee was drawn and final arrangements made for the catering for the Credit Union banquet to be held in the Legion Hall on February 20. Final arrangements were also announced by Mrs. L. B. Scarfield and Mrs. E. A. Rothery, co-conveners of the annual spring bazaar which will be held on April 2. Members were also reminded of the rummage sale to be held at the K.P. Hall at 9.30 on February 20.

A change has been made in the membership committee for 1960 and Mrs. C. Erickson is now chairman, with Mrs. R. Tuttle and Mrs. F. Starr assisting.

A report was given on the latest card party which was the largest yet. Winners at "500" were Mrs. E. Munro, E. Smith, with Mrs. V. Todd winning the booby prize. Cribbage prizes were taken by two ladies, both a pleasure to Mrs. Swift and Mr. Robertson. Door prize was won by Mrs. Swift and the tombola by Jack Hardingham.

Shortage Is Cause For Concern

(By Margaret Hooper in Royal Oak High School's The Squirrel's Chatter)

Which will it be at Royal Oak next year, a new school or swing-shift?

Most people, not connected directly with schools, are unaware how greatly over-crowded all Saanich schools are. Royal Oak, for example, was built to accommodate 300 students. It is now over-populated by 150. The basement activity room which students, teachers and P.T.A. members helped build has now been changed into three cold, draughty, poorly lit, unsound-proofed classrooms, appropriately dubbed "the dungeons". The time interval allotted for change from classroom to classroom has had to be increased, due to "traffic jams" in the corridors. Teachers are handicapped by having very large classes in small, ill-equipped classrooms, some of which do not even have sufficient seats for the pupils. The washroom facilities are woefully inadequate for the large school population.

A by-law to provide new schools and additions to present buildings was presented to the voters in December. It failed to pass by a heart-breaking small number of votes.

If new buildings are to be ready for use next year, the by-law must be passed when it is again presented to the people in February. The provincial government is paying 75 per cent of the estimated cost of $810,000. Advantage of this bargain must be taken while it is still offered! The remainder, $202,500 would be paid by the taxpayers, with the small increase of 1.1 to 1.4 mills in " . . . that he (Jesus) by the grace of God should taste death for every man."—Heb. 2:9.

In this world we are all familiar with the idea of substitution. During war years margarine came in as a substitute for butter. For the diabetic, sacarin is a substitute for sugar. If you go to the store for a certain commodity and the clerk doesn't have it he will usually try to get you to take a substitute. In the field of sport in team games we find substitution essential. If a player is tired and unable to do his best, or if he is a defensive player and the play calls for offensive action then a substitute is sent in to take his place. But the substitute can only go on the floor when the player acknowledges him and leaves.

This is a picture of Christ and ourselves in the game of life. We are unable to carry out the play successfully against sin. If we try ourselves we shall die and lose the game. But our Substitute sits on the side lines. He knows the play and has defeated the opponent every time He has been allowed to make the play. God, as Coach, has given Jesus the word to make the play against sin and death for each and every one of us but He cannot set His foot on the floor to take over for us until we turn to Him and acknowledge the substitution and yield to Him our place. Here substitution guarantees victory, playing for ourselves guarantees failure.

Old Wild West Is Still A Favorite

Debt-Ridden Palefaces' Dream

By AUSTIN ELLIOTT

A nationally-syndicated columnist, lamenting the demise of one of his favorite TV shows, remarked that these days if people are caught watching television "they act as though ashamed, hasten to switch it off, guilty of an offence."

I know exactly what sort of show he had in mind that spurred the guilt. Thinking back, and not too far back at that, I was an original of that statement. If caught by unexpected visitors I would slide up to the set and unobtrusively switch it off, or try to brazen it out, "just trying to catch the weather," "someone left it on," or "I was fixing the picture, bit fuzzy, bad for the kids, their eyes, you know." An obvious lie because my kids can't see a stack of dirty dishes four inches away nor a sock when it's half an inch under their grubby, running snouts. They're good and blind now.

Back to the TV. I've shaken off the shame. I'm a proud watcher. I don't care who comes or how many jugs they bring, they have to watch three half-hour shows or retire to the basement and admire my woodworking, which even the termites refuse to eat.

45 BULLETS

I follow with breathless interest the exploits of a small gentleman who, between odd grimaces and much scratching, collects a bounty for capturing less upright citizens, or perhaps they don't scratch enough; a larger gentleman with an insane passion for misquoting some of our better-known poets, and a gun for hire, or a chess set, depending on taste; and finally a very large gentleman with a somewhat annoying habit of interfering between earnest citizens bent on altering vital statistics via a spray of 45 bullets.

And why not watch them? The plots, alleged, are trite, the dialogue tried and tired, and the principals could not have gotten away from Tom Mix even if he had ridden side-saddle on a camel. But they still wear guns—and use 'em.

You're right—I like westerns. I was reared and teetothed on them, Saturday afternoon matinees at the local flea pit. Tom Mix, Buck Jones, Hoot Gibson, Jack Holt, etc. These hard-rock westerners had no time for romancing, rode anything on four legs and shot like inspired Bisley chaps, but faster, like, faster. Bang! Bang! Four dead!

We kids roared out of the theatres like a million tornadoes after watching these breathless epics, leaving the poor, be-devilled ushers to stamp out the fires, sweep the butts and swear to quit before next Saturday or join the Foreign Legion.

On the street we sowed death and destruction in the ranks of innocent strollers and Saturday shoppers. All who were silly enough to sport a thin mustache were mown down on sight and a slight resemblance to our accepted version of a lawyer was enough to seal their doom.

Stalked and shot from ambush was the fate we reserved for this sneaky-type villain. We knew, from the films these lily-livered processservers wouldn't even carry a gun. They hired pros. That was enough for uneducated, therefore unblemished and completely honest young minds to condemn them out of hand.

"ADULT" WESTERNS

Fortunately, that was before the days of the singing cowboy. Somehow, I can't visualize the pack of psychos I was proud to call friends, tap-dancing their way down Market St., playing guitars and harmonizing "Home on the Range." I also feel sorry, slightly, for this generation brought up on "adult" westerns, where the hero is not all good and the bad guy isn't all bad. After all, it isn't his fault his mother scolded him for setting fire to the house and roasting his baby brothers. Things like that sear a young mind, don't they?

Fortunately again, in our western there was no rrry, only black and white. You were good, won the girl, lifted the mortgage, outshot six pro killers, despite a broken arm or a bad case of housemaid's knee. Or you were bad, fated to be hung, shot dead, drowned, or suffer life-long indigestion through drinking a glass of milk in mistake for pure, three-day old cactus juice.

But even in their "adult" disguise the western still has appeal for me. That simple, uncomplicated life! You lived in the open for the most always ready to roll!

Well, it isn't what we usually find under the bed, but it's a refreshing idea, all right.

No more mopping under the bed—what joy! Goodbye to the elusive cloud-like puffs that usually reside there, and the stray cuff link, and the top of the hand lotion bottle.

Lost space is recaptured, and the handy feeling of "a place for everything and everything in its place" is yours at last.

The lady of the house that boasts these tidy fir plywood units can afford to feel snug. And just think, never again will she stumble over that infernal beloved train.

The modern bedroom is smaller than its predecessors. It needs all the organization you can muster, all part. You either bought or "liberated" a few head of cattle and you ran 'em on a range where the sun always shone. You spent your profits on simple, many pleasures, beer, saloon hostesses, crooked card games, beer, saloon hostesses, and for a change, rye and dance hall girls. Your cowboy got in trouble. He ran for a lawyer? You bet! He was gypped in a deal. So he raved and frothed then meekly subsided into his lot as a spineless sucker and let it drop? You bet—and lose your shirt. Nossir. He strapped on the old .45 and a few minutes later it was all settled, very satisfactorily. If he shot the fastest, he was very happy. If he didn't, according to the firm belief of a large number of very sincere people, he was even happier.

Simple and straightforward. No wonder I and few million other harassed, debt-ridden sedentary types escape into that carefree life. If they were haunted by a bullet we are haunted by a bailiff. Take your pick, I know mine.

I weep with the columnist for an hour of drama bootied out—that particular program featured some excellent western plays. I share his infatuation with its substitute, but I won't have him substituting his egghead shows for westerns. I don't want to be lectured, persuaded into believing that this atomic world is the dawn of hope.

I don't want to be educated. I don't, either. They've educated me into the usual economic trap of debt by credit, and to expect anni-the storage space you can devise, and the extra touch of chic suggested here by the artist doesn't hurt a bit, either.

It may not be of interest to you, but the thought occurs that here would be a made-to-measure hiding place for Christmas presents, Boston-banned books, and the cookie jar. Mind you, once the small fry caught on, it would be probably be necessary to add a sturdy padlock.

Plans for these ideas aren't to be found in books or magazines. The best ones originate in your head. A visit to the local lumber dealer will solve the details.

Fir plywood is so sturdy and easy to work with that even the most hilation by atomic bombs any day now. So leave a tiny, uneducated, moronic, if you like, part of me free to escape and revel in the tales of other morons who were too dumb to be educated into a car (encumbrance free, age 48), a house (74), which protected women, children, unarmed men and the right to pour your own snorts.

They say it's only the good that lives on after us, so there must have been a smidgin of good in these characters the westerners are based on. Some were psychos, vicious killers. Billy the Kid, Ringo, Curly Bill, Hickok, Bill Tilghman, Holliday, Hardin, Fisher, Thompson Bassett, and the rest, but some of them turned to being lawmen and did more good than a division of judges and an army of law spouters.

They had a gun, confidence and nerve. They were men. That's the appeal of the western to us cowardly, timid, tax-paying types. But they were complete morons, say our eggheads. Dangerous children who never grew up.

Okay, right. A bunch of the world's brainiest, simple-minded eggheads got together and planned a great practical joke. They completed this mirth-provoking scheme and then sat down in their blast-proof vaults until the news came through that their April Fool leg pull had written off a whole city, and its inhabitants, of course. Then these dear, kindly old gentlemen screamed their excitement at the news of their success, slapped each other on the back, had a drink, non-alcoholic, of course, to mark the occasion.

Psychos, morons, did someone say?

I don't think a TV series featuring these quaint old birds would catch on. I, for one, much prefer the bang, bang, four dead to one big bang, all dead.

I don't know which end from which of a horse, I'm a lousy card player and a clumsy cheat, point a gun at me and I'll keel over in a dead faint, but I can dream, can't I? Leave us our westerns, dear reformers, or we're liable to revolt, do something desperate, such as switch off the shows and watch the commercials.

My wife says if Jane Mansfield, Marilyn Monroe, and Diana Dors walked in the house during my western orgy I wouldn't even look up. Which statement hurt. I'm not that dedicated.

grandiose schemes can be tailored to the family budget. Just so you chose something that suits the overall decor.

and running charges, budgets, etc. (107 at last count).

You won't shame me into switching off a western. Those poor simple imbeciles tamed a huge, hard country and themselves at the same time. They established a code

Health Council Report Is Resume Of Past Year's Work

Major contribution to the district has been accomplished by North Saanich Health Council during the past year. The council has prepared an annual statement of operations as a preliminary to its annual meeting to be staged at Sidney school on Tuesday evening, Feb. 23.

In its report the council expresses gratitude to the Sidney Rotary Anns for their contribution of $25 to cover installation of curtain booths for the arthritis treatment room, and also to H.M.S. Endeavour Chapter, I.O.-D.E., for a contribution of $50 to assist in the provision of an infrared lamp for the treatment room. Further funds of approximately $50 are yet needed for the lamp, and any contributions will be gratefully received, stated the report.

K. P. Lodge in Sidney, and several other private donors volunteered funds during the year to finance the purchase of vaporizers in the past two years. These have been in great demand from the loan cupboard. Thanks were also expressed to A. G. Rodgers of Rest Haven Hospital for making a room available for the loan cupboard supplies.

The council again operated the first aid depot at SANSCHA Hall on Sidney Day, approximately 26 casualties being cared for. Cunningham Drug Store donated all the necessary equipment.

The usual voluntary help was supplied at the polio clinic and well baby clinic.

Requests for equipment from the loan cupboard continue to grow, as information of this free service becomes more widely known.

Last spring, classes for baby sitters were sponsored and arranged by the council under the able direction of Fire Chief G. A. Gardner, and R.C.M.P. constable William Stanton.

DENTAL CLINIC

The dental clinic was again in operation and Dr. J. D. Butler cared for approximately 40 children. There may be a change next year in government policy concerning dental service, but the health council will provide all the information in this regard as soon as it is available, members were assured.

ARTHRITIS TREATMENT ROOM

The council has finally been successful in arranging for a treatment room at the health centre on Fourth St., available to all residents of the district, on doctor's prescription, who may require physiotherapy. Mrs. M. Pedersen, of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, in Victoria, comes out every Thursday from 2 to 4 p.m. to the health centre. The response has been so great she may have to lengthen her hours.

50 Years Of Progress

AND HERE WE ARE BACK AGAIN!

By V. SHIRLEY

Back about 1910 (when the keel of the ferry Cy Peck was being laid with methodical care down in Tacoma, Washington), a gentleman named Bullock became the proud owner of the first car on Salt Spring Island. This I've been told by the "old timers" hereabouts.

Now, this car was a bone of contention on Salt Spring. The cows didn't like it, the sheep didn't like it, the hens didn't like it, and everybody didn't like it. Except Mr. Bullock. He liked it. When he bumped proudly over the island roads, every creature took cover. Conditions worsened.

Just as in 1960, delegations from the islands were not uncommon in Victoria in those days. So, the citizens held a meeting, and four staunch men, and true, were chosen as delegates, to protest the monstrosity that was disturbing the peace of Salt Spring. They were instructed to ask the minister for a restraining order, banishing the car from the public roads. The cows held back their milk. The sheep took to the hills and the fleeces became ragged and full of burrs. The hens stopped laying; horses bled; and the women folk were just plumb nervous.

The minister listened with the same polite attention that all ministers of the crown acquire, along with the swearing in. But then he exploded. "Gentlemen! You're asking me to stop progress," he exclaimed. "It can't be done." They argued, but it was no use. They went home.

Eventually, they worked it out with Mr. Bullock. He, being an extremely tolerant man, agreed to a compromise, favoring the cows, sheep, chickens, horses—and all the other residents. On Sundays, Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, all was serene on Salt Spring Island. The cows let down their milk; the sheep grazed peacefully in the pastures; the hens laid eggs, and clogged triumphantly; and the women folk (and the men) lived the good life. On Wednesdays, Mr. Bullock, like the Maharajah of Indore, drove his car, over the winding, empty roads of Salt Spring, and creatures and people kept out of sight, and, if possible, sound.

All this was 50 years ago. O' my! O change! The livestock of that era, many of the people, and certainly Mr. Bullock's car, are gone. But the Cy Peck is still with us, and cars are now more numerous on all the islands than horses were back in 1910.

Now the Cy Peck has been, and still is, a faithful and dependable little craft. But she is old, and

GANGES

Mrs. E. J. Ashlee

Ganges, B.C.

Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. D. G. Crofton, Ganges, spent several days visiting in Vancouver last week-end.

The Wagon Wheel Square Dance Club held a Valentine dance party in Mahon Hall, Ganges, N. Williams, of Victoria, who has been conducting classes for some time, upon "cubed" and supplied the recorded music. A good attendance had an enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Brown were hosts to a large party in fancy dress prior to the Valentine masquerade dance in Fulford Hall. Before leaving the Brown's home to attend the dance, guests enjoyed a Chinese supper party with a wide variety of delectable Chinese foods on the buffet supper table.

C. N. Peterson, Courtenay, spent the week-end at his home on Spadina Road, with his wife and daughter. Teenagers' Valentine dance in Mahon Hall last Friday evening was enjoyed when a good crowd of young people gathered for the affair.

Miss Prudence Baker, Vancouver, spent the week-end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Baker, of Ganges. The latter have received word that their son, Fred H. Baker, R.C.A.F., has been promoted to Lieutenant. Mr. and Mrs. Baker and his wife were in Ganges and their son and daughter have been stationed in Germany the past few years. They hope to return to Canada this

VALENTINE COSTUME DANCE

—Poor Attendance

The Valentine costume dance at Fulford Hall was fine as far as the dance music and display of costumes went. On Friday night, Feb. 12. But where were the people from the Fulford districts? The Ganges crowd turned out, many of them in costumes, and grateful indeed are those in charge.

And it was such a pity, the local people do not patronize their own hall. The music played by the Skylighters' orchestra, from Victoria, was excellent. The costumes worn by those present, were really good. It costs a lot to get an orchestra from out of town, and the Fulford Hall committee put many hours into arranging such affairs, so it is discouraging when there is no response from the people.

However, we find there are several down with 'flu' and some of the roads are not too easy to traverse

Mrs. E. Worthington presided at the Anglican Women's Auxiliary meeting held in the parish hall, Ganges, last week, in the absence of the president, Mrs. G. H. Holmes, through illness. She was assisted in the devotional period by Mrs. W. Norton.

A newsletter was read from the W.A.'s prayer partner, Rev. D. Whitbread.

It was decided to give $10 to a special thank-offering for the diocesan board.

Dorcas convener, Mrs. H. Ashby, reported on the work and displayed knitted articles already finished.

Mrs. V. L. Jackson, sewing convener, reported on progress made.

Mrs. A. W. Barber, general convener for the Valentine tea, reported arrangements well in hand.

Mrs. Norton and Mrs. Worthington will assist in the Women's World Day of Prayer service to be held in the United Church, March 4.

It was decided to again sponsor a deaconry luncheon in June.

Mrs. F. H. Baker will convener the fifth annual concert featuring Vancouver artists, including her daughter, Miss Frouda Baker.

A paper was read on the work of Dr. A. Schweitzer in Africa.

Archdeacon G.H. Holmes closed the meeting, and refreshments were supplied by Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. S. P. Beech.

Hepburn held the final auditions for the girls and the boys at Mrs. Hepburn's home. The final results were as follows: Gladys Patterson is to be Aunt Sary, Marcia Sober is to be Arabella, and Coline Mouat is to be Jess. The boys were cast as follows: Malcolm Bond is to be George, the star role; Bruce Begon is to be Ben, James Burge is to be Andy and Duncan Hepburn is to be Grandpa. The girls are all sopranos. Malcolm sings tenor, Bruce is a baritone, James sings bass and Duncan sings baritone.

The Students' Council is studying the possibility of installing a Coke machine and a pen machine in the school. The school has no cafeteria, and the nearest store is several blocks away so the Coke machine is in order. The pen machine will lessen the borrowing that goes on at present when someone's pen runs out of ink.

ISLAND CHAPTER RECALLS EARLY HISTORY OF ORDER

H.M.S. Ganges Chapter, I.O.D.E., marked Founders Day and the 60th anniversary of the order, by holding an informal luncheon at Harbour House Hotel, Ganges, last Saturday afternoon.

Twenty members enjoyed the affair which was followed by a meeting, with the regent, Mrs. H. C. Geigerich, presiding. Questions concerning immigration came under discussion.

A paper was read, regarding founding of the order by the late Mrs. Clark Murray, who came to Canada as a girl-bride to become the wife of a McGill professor. In 1899 she was entertaining six fashionable ladies at tea when she drew their attention to the peaceful street outside. "Yet", she said, "in Africa young Canadians are helping in our Empire war, perhaps dying. They are buried in a lonely place with no one even to lay a flower on their graves." She suggested something be done to mark the graves, and that afternoon was born the South African Grave Association.

Mrs. Murray pondered still further, and began to conceive the idea of a permanent co-operation of the women of the far-flung British

A customer sat down at a table in a smart restaurant and tied his napkin around his neck.

The distraught manager called a waiter and instructed him: "Try to make him understand as tactfully as possible, that that's not done."

Said the thoughtful waiter to the customer: "Pardon me, sir, shave or haircut?"

Empire. She felt they could do much to promote better knowledge and understanding.

60 YEARS AGO

The idea of an Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire was presented to her friends and they concurred with her, so on January 15, 1900, Mrs. Murray swung into action. Telegrams went to all provincial capitals across Canada, urging them to call prominent women in their communities to organize as Daughters of the Empire. Two weeks later 37 women attended a meeting to form the first chapter.

"To unite the far-flung nations of the British Empire, to perpetuate the ideals and traditions that have made it as it is, to foster a feeling of relationship, of sisterhood in our larger family of women who live under the banner of the British flag," were aims that met with ready response.

Mrs. Murray was the order's first secretary and undertook most of the organizing, from primary chapters, to municipal, provincial and national chapters.

She had begun an enormous task, entailing correspondence across Canada and the seven seas. The following year she went to England to complete the work there, and met representatives from South Africa, Australia and New Zealand.

During the great war of 1914-18 she saw the fruits of her labors. She lost her husband and a daughter in 1917 and died 10 years later at the age of 83 years—child of Scotland, woman of Canada, and Daughter of the Empire.

Flat Roof Used to Advantage In Design of Split-Level House

Although not usually found in a split-level design, the flat roof has been used to advantage in this three-bedroom frame house by architect A. M. Bowers, of Calgary. Because of this roof line, the split-level is not immediately apparent. The bedrooms are seven steps up from the ground level which contains the entrance hall, living room and kitchen. There is a lower floor beneath the bedrooms which provides for heating, storage, laundry and a recreation area. The large living-dining room extending across the front of the house is a noteworthy feature along with the generous size entrance hall and the compact kitchen.

The total floor area is 1,191 square feet and the exterior dimensions are 44 feet by 33 feet, eight inches. Working drawings for the house, known as Design 761, may be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

WELFARE STATE IS NOTHING NEW

Charities Existed Many Centuries Ago

By DORIS LEEDHAM HOBBS

We talk about England being a "Welfare State," as if this were quite a new idea, and yet for hundreds of years, yes, literally hundreds, money has been stored up, invested in trusts for the benefit of those less fortunate fellow-beings who needed help.

No one wants help or charities, no human being wants to feel he is always at the receiving end, and it seems that a great revolution is being set in motion in the Old Country whereby the House of Lords is bringing out a new bill based on the findings of Lord Nathan, which will affect some 11,000 charitable trusts, which own £200 millions in investments and a vast amount of land.

The idea is to do away with ancient obsolete charities which have become "dead letters" because the need for them no longer exists and the present law prevents their funds being used for any other purpose.

Lord Nathan, in debate, urged that the objects of trusts must keep pace with the needs.

For instance, domestic servants, for whom many charities were founded, are a disappearing class. Some charities control vast sums of money which could be spent in what Viscount Samuel, the veteran peer, terms the "common good."

NO RED FLANNEL. No longer are red flannel petticoats standard clothing for aged women—or poke bonnets and shawls and clogs for endowed schools for girls.

The church has always been the great dispenser of charities and many wealthy land owners left land to the church in trust for annual distributions of food and clothing for the needy. Food was provided, in perpetuity, for pilgrims, and if you or I went to the hospital of St. Cross at Winchester we could obtain a dole of bread and ale to this day—an 800-year-old charity.

England has numerous fascinating stories connected with charities: The Tielborne Dole consists of flour given to every man, woman and child in Tielborne and Chert-ton. This is made from wheat grown on 23 acres, round which Isabella Lady Tielborne crawled, holding a torch, her lord and master having forbidden her as much land as she could walk round holding a lighted torch. On Lady Day this gift is made, and to this day the fields are known as "The Crawls."

On Whit Sunday, at St. Briavel's a basket of bread and cheese is thrown from the top of a high wall in a narrow lane to the people below.

Buns seem to have been favorite charitable gifts, for on founder's day in many of our schools buns are distributed to the scholars. Most of the great public schools of England have grown from the foundations laid for charity scholars in the middle ages.

Barrels of herrings, white and red, occur in another charity.

DECREPID BACHELORS

Bachelors were evidently objects of pity for we read that in 1662 an alderman of Worcester left money for the housing of eight "most decrepid single men" and for two poor women to look after them!

One could go on and on delving into these strange and now obsolete conditions and it would not be in keeping with the character of the English to let many of these fascinating relics of a bygone age die out.

There are always the lovers of history who keep these alive in all their picturesque quaintness. However, the new "common good" amalgamation of a district's charities will deal with lands and funds which in their millions could do more good if devoted to modern requirements.

School Boards Are Helpless In Face Of Land Tax Burden

—Sinkinson Speaks At Prospect Lake

School boards are helpless to take action to relieve the taxpayer of the burden of education costs. Saanich School Trustee Reginald Sinkinson told ratepayers of Prospect Lake on Monday that the boards fully appreciate the problems of education finance but that this is a problem for the provincial government and that no one else can deal with it.

Mr. Sinkinson was speaking to the Prospect Lake and District Community Association. He outlined the proposed building by-law which will be presented on Saturday, Feb. 27. He recognized the antipathy of the public towards such provisions as auditoriums, but he assured the meeting that only one such feature was contemplated under the present program and that would be at Wesley Road. It would not be practical to erect a new school there without the facilities enjoyed by other schools in the immediate vicinity, he suggested. The students at the new school would be in competition with pupils enjoying such facilities.

Mr. Sinkinson again referred to the tax on lands. This was a problem facing the government, he asserted. It is up to the public to press the government for a change, urged the trustee.

In conclusion, Mr. Sinkinson explained to the meeting that the lion's share of the project will be borne by the province. The district will find 25 per cent of the total cost of the buildings planned, while the government, through the department of education, furnishes 75 per cent.

The by-law to be presented this month is in the amount of $810,000. The ratepayers, explained the speaker, will be called upon to find $200,000.

SCOUT and CUB NOTES

As a fitting conclusion to Baden Powell Week, which commemorates the founder of the Scout movement, a special "Scouts' Own Service" will be held in St. Andrew's Church at 2.45 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 21, at which the Sidney Scouts, Cubs, Brownies and Guides, and their leaders will parade in full dress.

The service will be conducted by the rector, Rev. Frederick Vaughan-Birch.

Training in the Sidney Scout troop has been proceeding at a brisk pace with each boy working on his tenderfoot, second or first class badge. Emphasis is at present being placed on knots, Morse code and semaphore.

On February 11, both Sidney Cub packs, the Scout troop and their leaders attended the hockey game at the Memorial Arena in Victoria when the Victoria Cougars downed the Spokane Comets. They were guests of the Sidney hardware firm, Mitchell and Anderson Ltd., and C. J. Ganderton, plumber.

The group committee met on February 12 at the home of D. R. Cook, Bazan Bay Road. Mrs. G. Laing was appointed badge secretary. Plans for a further work bee at the Scout Hall were discussed and a group of fathers met on Sunday, Feb. 14, to complete the carpentry work on the unfinished cupboards. A door has been donated and hung at the back of the hall. A paint job now remains to complete the present improvement plan.

At the annual meeting of the Cub and Scout Mothers held recently in the Scout Hall, the following were elected to serve for the next year: president, Mrs. J. J. Woods; vice-president, Mrs. A. A. Hopkins; secretary, Mrs. C. Sansbury; treasurer, Mrs. J. Lott.

It was decided to postpone the father and son banquet until the latter part of May.

BETWEEN THE LINES

They Set The Type To Set The Pace

Genial Press Operator Is Key Man

There is little connection between printing and television, yet Gordon Bamford is skilled with both. A man with a perpetual grin, Gordon arrived at The Review's plant in October last year. Since that time he has been responsible for almost all job printing which passes through the shop.

A native Victorian, he finished his apprenticeship with a Victoria printing house. After six years of learning his trade, he decided to look further afield and drove to Toronto, where he studied television. He enjoyed the course and found the work interesting, but his old love called him and he returned to the printing industry.

The printed image never flickers and once brought up, it remains more or less constant. On the other hand both lines of endeavor are closely concerned with problems of static electricity. The effect of static on the screen is to render a picture virtually incomprehensible. It's effect on paper is to render it unprintable. An automatic printing press will fail to feed properly if the stock is too highly charged.

Gordon Bamford is the only member of the staff whose home is not in the immediate vicinity. He lives in Victoria with his wife and spends his spare time bowling and studying television. In his youth he devoted those spare hours to lacrosse and basketball.

The pressman is seen working at a Miehle vertical press, with his inevitable grin. The press department is completely unconcerned with the newspaper and is occupied on a full-time basis with printing job work.

Gordon comes into the picture when the type is set and made up into the form in which it will ultimately appear. He places the form on the press and makes it "ready".

Homeowner, fishing in flooded basement, to friend: "We gave up trying to keep it dry and had it stocked!"

Unsung and frequently scarcely known is the transport field of the air force. The Royal Canadian Air Force operates numerous types of aircraft for freight and passenger transport, apart from its purely military machines. Shown above is the Convair, twin-engined Canadian-built transport in service with the air force. Planes of the air force are flying in all parts of the world at all times, hauling for the military forces and in service on behalf of the government.

general construction is a legacy from the earliest days of commercial printing. Although not so aged as the style, the hand press is employed for special runs which cannot be effectively handled on the automatic presses.

The pressman is the artisan responsible in the final analysis for the appearance of the job as it is seen by the customer. The printer sets the type and decides the style, but it is the pressman whose effort decides the quality of the work.

Everything from business cards to trade magazines and from social stationery to booklets and catalogues passes through Gordon Bamford's hands. He is applying the skill gained from six years of learning the business.

This is a process of adjustment whereby no part is pressed too hard and no area is suffering from inadequate pressure. When the job is ready, and on a fine-register project this make-ready is a long and involved process, he sets the machine running to produce about 4,000 impressions an hour.

LEGACY FROM PAST
He has two such presses in his charge. In addition, he also operates an Original Heidelberg automatic platen press, which is slower but suitable for specific work, and a hand-fed platen press. The latter is a direct link with the past, for its
